

Intersections: Bringing together necessary elements for Inclusive, Sustainable Sanitation Strategies in Cities

Wednesday, October 19
4:30 - 6:30 pm
Room MR17

All too often, sanitation is addressed as a mono-dimensional technical issue, when in fact there are intersections that are critical to consider in the design and execution of sanitation projects and plans. Sanitation is a technology challenge, a market development challenge, a city services and infrastructure challenge, a cultural and community challenge, and a challenge of gender equity.

The aim of this panel is to deepen understanding about these intersections through presentations that focus on experience drawn from practice that illuminate this complexity. Panelists will identify best practices and lessons learned for coordinated implementation of sanitation projects for the urban poor in less developed countries.

Moderator: Judith Hermanson, IHC Global

Panelists: Susana M. Rojas Williams, Habitat for Humanity International

Alberto Wilde, Global Communities

Roshan Shrestha, Gates Foundation

Lianne Romahi, International City/County Management Association

Cecilia Rodrigues, Sustainable Sanitation Alliance (SuSanA) / GIZ

