An Approach to Inclusive Cities

IHC Global will be hosting a networking event for Habitat III, in collaboration with Habitat for Humanity International, the National Association of Realtors, and SECOVI-SP. In this session, practitioners and participants in successful “People Public Private Partnerships (PPPPs)” will diagnose and present practical advice on how this approach works by bringing public and private resources into alignment with community priorities through active collaboration among stakeholders. They will talk about the major ingredients for success and how barriers were overcome to help the communities and cities in which the PPPPs were implemented become more equitable and livable. The focus will be on practical application as a way to build inclusion and leverage resources under the NUA. Presenters will include their perspectives of civil society, private sector, local government and people from communities.
